Excerpt: . . . which eliminate features that were deceptive, yet the Association is able to report that it closed the year 1897 with more paid for business than ever before in its history and with a larger premium income than ever before in its history. These are two of the essentials in the successful administration of a life insurance company. The results of last years operations, as disclosed in the above figures, leave no doubt of the efficiency of those who are getting business for the Association, or who are managing its affairs. President Burnhams annual address is a very able discussion of the system of life insurance which the Mutual Reserve represents. His words should carry conviction to the members of the Association that the permanency of the Association must depend upon exact justice between all the members. The price paid for insurance by each member...

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
